satirizing Charles Dana and Samuel Tilden in particular.
There are a number of obscure references in the mottos on these medals, and Bill is working on putting together an article fully explaining the medals. We eagerly await the article!

We invite you to watch Bill's full presentation on the PCNS YouTube channel.

MAY MEETING HIGHLIGHTS

Speaker Bill Hyder talked about his research into the satirical medals of Isaac F. Wood. Bill began by talking about four 1876 satirical presidential election medals designed by Wood and produced by George Lovett.

Wood was born in 1841 and died about 1895. Because he changed his name there is some difficulty tracking down early information about him.

Wood began issuing medals in 1868. His first medal was perhaps one with the motto THE FIRST "DADDY OF THE AMERICAN COIN TRADE". In 1869 came the Wood Memorial Medal series, featuring Norwalk, Andrew Johnson, and his alma mater Haverford College. In 1875 he issued a satirical medal about George Washington and the incomplete Washington Monument.

Wood was a fan of President Grant and struck a number of satirical medals relating to politicians. Bill detailed medals

MAY MEMBER EXHIBITS

Charlie showed the latest acquisition of a Thomas Spence Conder Token (D&H 720) with a die combination of two sought after images. And I also showed the book written by James Conder in 1799 that gave these tokens their name.

Stephen continues his collection related to Venice, which rebelled against Austrian rule in 1848. He showed a recently purchased 1812 copper Soldo, minted in Milan for Napoleon- the King of Italy at the time.

Jeff P. showed a photo of a beautiful 1863 Seated Liberty quarter dollar pattern and gave us details on it. There are perhaps six known, his is the second highest graded.

PCNS received an inquiry about a Western Multiphone token, which was referred to Michael to answer. He has two of the tokens. They are not telephone tokens; they advertise for the first juke box! Michael found photos of some of these jukeboxes to go along with the tokens, and shared information about the company.
